Checked In Care Receives Majority Investment from Accel-KKR; Becomes Part of Evaran in Broader Vision of Connected Care

Sydney, Australia, June 4, 2026 -- Checked In Care, a leading provider of digital care communication and engagement solutions for aged care, disability, and community care providers has received a majority investment from Accel-KKR, a global technology-focused private equity firm. Checked In Care will become part of Evaran, joining proven sector-leading care software providers Health Metrics eCase, MOA Benchmarking and CareLineLive under a new unified care technology platform.

“We are excited about what Accel-KKR brings to Checked In Care,” said John Perkins, Founder & CEO of Checked In Care. “Their support will help us deliver greater value to customers, expand globally and accelerate our vision of a world where all people live their best lives with choice and dignity. We are also thrilled to join Evaran, alongside sector-leading providers that share our commitment to better care outcomes through the power of integrated technology, workflows, data and insights.”

With Accel-KKR’s backing, Checked In Care plans to continue expanding its platform capabilities, including longer-term innovation focused on connected ecosystems that support care delivery, communication, and empower choice.

As part of Evaran, Checked In Care will collaborate closely with sector leaders eCase, MOA Benchmarking and CareLineLive to advance a more connected care ecosystem. Together, these businesses bring complementary capabilities across care delivery, clinical management, workforce operations, analytics, benchmarking and now stakeholder engagement and communication. Evaran’s vision is to enable a person-centred approach across the continuum of care. Through interoperability across its platforms, Evaran aims to create seamless communication, coordinated service delivery, and a unified data foundation that delivers meaningful operational, clinical, and performance insights.

“Checked In Care brings an important dimension to Evaran’s platform vision for connected care,” said Tyron Ball, CEO of Evaran. “Its industry-leading communication and engagement solutions connect providers, care recipients, and families, empowering key stakeholders in the care journey to remain informed and involved. The addition of Checked In Care continues Evaran’s strong momentum as we build a truly end-to-end care technology platform, bringing together best-in-class solutions across the care continuum. By combining leading clinical, operational, workforce, benchmarking, and now engagement and communication capabilities, Evaran is developing a one-of-a-kind integrated platform that will position us as an industry leader and enable more connected, person-centred care."

Importantly, Checked In Care will continue to support an open and collaborative integration model, working with a broad range of platforms and partners across the care sector.

"This investment in Checked In Care reflects our commitment to partnering with founder-led, mission-driven technology businesses that play a critical role in the care sector," said Phil Cunningham, Managing Director at Accel-KKR. "We are also excited about the critical value that Checked In Care will play within Evaran's broader platform of connected care, helping bring together the people, systems, and information that enable more coordinated, person-centred care across the continuum."
